Mr Blumfled—I grew up in the Midwest believing that people in the end do the right thing. Unfortunatley, the whole PCB issue at Malibu High School has challenged this belief. At this point, I think it is imperative that EPA does it's job and requires a plan that involves testing the caulk in all of our classrooms. It is unthinkable that anyone who theoretically is employed "by the people" would do anything to put children and teachers at risk. As we say back in Illinois—better safe than sorry.

Sincerely, Cindy Crawford
